

GLENN ALEXANDER

GUITARIST / COMPOSER / PRODUCER

NEWSLETTER - OCTOBER 2015

As always, thanks for checkin' out the newsletter. I'm hopin' everyone had a good summer. Now, before you know it, it will be Thanksgiving, then Christmas and another year has flown by. Enjoy the moments and come out and say hi Glenn

ORIA ASPEN: September saw me play a bunch of dates with an extremely talented singer-songwriter - who just happens to be my daughter! Oria and I played a private corporate event, as well as some public performances, including an amazing gig at Bar Thalia in New York City. Every musician longs for gigs like this one, where both of the musicians connect with each other, the music and the crowd in an organic, natural way. We had our good friend Tony Tino playin' bass and the whole night was just about perfect. Oria and I looking to book more of these dates, so stay tuned and watch my website and Facebook page for all of the latest gigs and information

THE JUKES: Well, as I write this, I'm still reeling from "The Big E," a New England multi-state fair. We did two shows a day for three days and despite my initial skepticism, it was a blast! We signed copies of the new CD Soultime! after every show and got to meet a ton of great fans. Thank you to everyone that came out - including the few "regulars" who took a road trip, you know who you are! It was fun, but I don't think I'll look at fried dough in the same way ever again. Anyway, this month we go to Upstate New York and a bowling alley in Brooklyn - watch out!!!

GA3: Some exciting news - GA3 has started recording!!! We have a bunch of new, original songs that we're excited about and we can't wait for everyone to hear. It's difficult to schedule sessions with so many busy musicians, but we're gettin' it done, so stay tuned

GLENN STREET LIVE: We were all ready to go a couple of weeks ago, and even made the announcement that we'd be live. But, when push came to shove, technology was the schoolyard bully that kicked our ass. We're shooting for our big comeback very soon, so please be patient and keep watchin' our Facebook and Twitter pages for info, and check out YouTube channel for past webcasts

ETC: I had another great gig with my buddy Will Kenney at The Bitter End. This time we played with Willard Dyson and my Jukes and Glenn Street brother John Isley. As always, it's a great night when I get to play with such talented cats. I have another hit with these guys at the end of the month. Please keep lookin' out for these late added dates on both my website and Facebook page
