NEWSLETTER - JULY 2018

I can't believe July is here. The summer is rolling by fast. As we celebrate the independence of our country it makes me realize that despite all of the political insanity and challenges we face as a nation, we still have it really good and are extremely fortunate. To wake up every day free, to have work, to be able to get to work, to have a home, to have a family, a garden, food on the table and be able to play music - I am damn fortunate indeed! I know that there are still daily challenges and life struggles and therefore I am thankful for every day and every moment. I hope to see some of y'all on Sunday, July 1st for the only Shadowland gig this month. Finishing the album and have written enough for another one. Enjoy the sunshine and beautiful weather folks. Be safe and come say hi - rock on!! Glenn

SHADOWLAND: If you are reading this BEFORE Sunday, July 1st, then plan to be at the wonderful Roxy & Duke's for the Shadowland show. If you are reading this ON July 1st, then get your ass there now! My good friend Alan Grant will be there with his band - and it's the only Shadowland appearance in July, due to The Jukes European schedule. It's gonna be a great night - no tricks, no flicks, no slick giveaways, no bullshit, just the baddest band in the land playin' our favorite cool ass, rockin' joint ... Like I said before, it's tough to schedule things with so many cats in the band, but the Shadowland recording is gettin' done and will have the legendary badass Mike Finnigan on vocals, organ and piano, as well as the usual cast of Shadowland characters. It's gonna be smokin' and bad to the bone. So please keep checkin' my website, Facebook page and Twitter

THE JUKES: The Jukes only have two shows this month in the U.S., but they're big ones at two legendary venues: The Birchmere Music Hall and The Stone Pony - two places we love playin' and always sell out. Then, it's on to Europe for a whirlwind tour with six shows in eight days - oh boy! Hope to see some old and new friends at these gigs, at both home and abroad

ETC: The two sold-out Southside Johnny show at the Blue Note in early June really surpassed expectations. It was a wonderful night and I was honored to be a part of it. Johnny's voice was amazing and the stories of how he first heard and knew these Billie Holiday songs were entertaining. John Isley's arrangements were creative and impeccable and the band was incredible. Hopefully, we'll do it again sometime, because I would love to have more folks be able to hear it ... Our rescheduled gig at Roosterspin was great. Oria and I love that spot and thank everyone who came out to see us. We hope to be back again soon

A memorable night at the Blue Note in NYC
