NEWSLETTER - AUGUST 2018

Holy cow!!! July flew by and now it's August - whaaat?!? The summer is going fast. July was an extraordinary month - a tour of Europe and the hunting experience of a lifetime in Germany with my good friend Reiner. I met so many amazing people on tour. It's always a good lesson to travel around the world and realize no matter the language, no matter the color of the skin, people are amazing, kind, cool, loving and giving and we have far more in common than we have differences. We are fortunate and blessed. That is why I reposted my song Common Ground - written with Stanley Schwartz, recorded and mixed by John Isley and the video edited by Emmy-award winner Preston Madill. Spread the love. Much more coming soon, so keep your eyes peeled, enjoy the newsletter and rest of the summer

With The Jukes at the Stone Pony Summer Stage

come out, support this worthy cause and eat, drink and be merry with us. Many more details to come - including ticket info, band lineup and special guests (!) - so please keep checkin' all of my regular spots - my website, Facebook page and Twitter feed for all the latest

THE JUKES: Wow, what a fun, but short, trip to Europe we had! The shows were all great, the crowds were amazing and the venues fantastic! It was wonderful to see some old friends and make new ones, but the highlight of my trip was a nighttime wild boar hunting expedition with my good buddy, Reiner. We saw one young male boar and I was the one who bagged it. One night, one shot, one pig - wow!!! I'm sure it made tasty eatin' a few days later! As much as I enjoy travelin' the world, there really is no place like home and I was glad to get back to my garden. The Jukes have a bunch of shows stateside this month - in New Jersey, Virginia, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Ohio and New York - so I hope to see some of y'all along the way. P.S. although The Jukes had only one U.S. show in July, it was a doozie - the annual Stone Pony Summer Stage bash. There was a crowd of something like 4,000 people in venue and countless others listening on the boardwalk and rooftops. A great night, and a big thanks to everyone who came out

SHADOWLAND: There are a lot of big gigs coming up for Shadowland in the very near future. First up - the Westfield Jazz Festival on August 7th. This is always a wonderful night - playin' great music under the stars in front of a big, hometown crowd. What could be better, right? Well, it's FREE! That's right, a free concert on a summer night. Y'all should check it out! Music starts promptly at 7pm ... We're also lookin' forward to September when we'll be back at Worsell Manor in Warwick, Maryland. This is a beautiful venue - a lovingly renovated barn that dates back to Revolutionary days - in a wonderfully rural part of the state. We played there last year to a sold-out audience and were blown away by the audience reception. We're happy to get back and see our friend Scott, the owner of this amazing venue ... And also next month - The General's Pig Gig IV cancer benefit. Once again, we'll be holdin' a big ol' party where all profits will benefit fibrolamellar research - this is the rare cancer that claimed my nephew Jay Alexander at just 20 years old. So, please
