NEWSLETTER - FEBRUARY 2019

Brrrrr...the cold of winter is upon us! I really can't complain, as it was a long time comin' - so how long can it really last!?!? I always look forward to the warmth and beauty of spring and that helps to keep me positive and strong. Got to keep your eyes on the prize as Mavis Staples so beautifully and soulfully sang!! So keep your eyes on the prize and I'll see ya down the road. Stay warm!!! Glenn

Had a short visit with my folks and brother Greg

New Year's Eve show at the Count Basie Theatre, The Jukes took the month of January off, but February kicks off almost two solid months of shows! We start with a show at the legendary Stone Pony, then immediately hit the road for stops in Virginia, North Carolina, Florida, Atlanta and Nashville. Wow! I don't know about anyone else, but I'm lookin' forward to spending the bulk of February in those warmer temps down South! If we're in your area, please check out a show and say hello

ETC: I had a couple of really fun gigs with Oria and our friend (and bassist extraordinaire!) Chris Plunkett. First up was at a new spot for us - Barnacle Bill's in Rumson. Man, what a great place! We loved it there and the owner, Todd Sherman, was amazingly welcoming. I was sick as a dog that night and had little or no voice, but marched on and got a little help from special guest, Alan Grant. I leaned on Oria and Chris for the heavy-lifting in the singing department and we got through it. Hope that is the first of many appearances at Barnacle Bill's ... Oria and I made our return to the wonderful Salt Creek Grille in Princeton last month and we had a blast! Once again we were joined by Chris Plunkett and had a killin' set and a lot of laughs. Salt Creek is a wonderful spot and we'll be back there on February 9th, so if you missed us in January, c'mon out in February! Remember to keep an eye on my website for all the latest gig dates and photos ... During January I had a chance to get in a short visit to Kansas to see my folks and get some goose hunting in with my brother Greg. While we walked away empty handed, it was still nice to get back to the homeland and hang with family

SHADOWLAND: Well, Shadowland was back at it in January, playin' our first show in a couple of months. The venue was Beneduce Vineyards. On a cold, rainy night, we played in a beautiful, heated greenhouse, filled with fruit trees and exotic flowering bushes. It was a pretty sweet spot and the crowd was amazing, so thanks to all who ventured out in such miserable weather. With a full touring schedule with The Jukes about to ramp up, all things Shadowland will be put on hold for a bit, but have no fear! We are workin' behind the scenes - mixing the new album, editing videos, etc. - to bring you new music as soon as possible. So, please keep checkin' my website, Facebook page and Twitter feed for all news and info
