NEWSLETTER – FEBRUARY 2024

Okay, ladies and people - it's February and the temps are cold, the skies are dark and grey and the weather is basically crappy and sucks. Just wanted to point out the obvious, as it drives me to drinking too much and makes me miserable and depressed - which then makes me drink too much. It's a helluva cycle. So, if I run into you and I seem crabby, you'll know why. The only good thing is that you really, really appreciate the sun and warm weather when it arrives and we don't take it for granted unlike those knuckleheads in Florida. Bastards! Anyway, please stay safe this month and look ahead to March, which brings spring and flowers and renewed hope for mankind Glenn

BLUE AMERICANA: We had a great show at McLoone's Supper Club last month as part of the Light of Day festivities. We performed as part of the Songwriters By The Sea series and shared the stage with our good friends Adam Ezra and Lisa Bouchelle. It was a sold-out house and the musicianship was off the charts. We absolutely love being part of this fundraising effort to combat Parkinson's Disease. Thanks to all who came out, said hello and offered kind words ... Blue Americana has few live gigs this month, all of which we are excited about. Got to get out of the house! We're back at three great spots: the Logan Inn in New Hope, Hailey's in Metuchen and Village Hall in South Orange. We'd love to see y'all, so please stop by and say hello ... Blue Americana will be releasing another

At McLoone's Supper Club for Light of Day

new song titled "Dancin In The Rain." It's a song I wrote with my brother Greg - he wrote most of the lyrics and I slapped some music to it. Oria and I sing on it and we think you are gonna love it - and if you do, PLEASE share it with anyone and everyone. We are really trying hard to expand our audience and fanbase and we need your help! You know what I always say: "If you like what you hear, please share it with everyone, if you don't like what you hear, please keep that shit to yourself, because we don't need any bad publicity." We'll let you know when it is up and streaming, so stay tuned

THE JUKES: The Jukes are back in a big way this month - we have our annual winter/Valentines hit at the legendary Stone Pony. We were originally booked for only Saturday night, but it sold out so quickly, they added Friday, as well. So, we will be there for two consecutive nights - woohoo! Come on out, squeeze in there with a bunch of strangers, get to know one another and spread the love. Just don't spread any diseases - Covid, the flu and any other shit that no one wants to take home. That's my public service announcement. You can thank me when you see me - at a distance :)

SHADOWLAND: I don't think I adequately expressed in the last newsletter how great Shadowland's New Year's Eve gig in Morristown was! There was a large enthusiastic crowd, many of whom had traveled north after The Jukes NYE gig. It was a great night and I thank everyone who was there to support us ... We will be re-releasing "Tequila & Lime" - I didn't like the mix on the original - and also releasing a new song called "Wada B. Merky." It's a really fun, quirky toetapper, in a Mose Allison kind of way, and a groovester, so please be on the lookout

HUMBLEBRAG: This is my instrumental group with my Jukes brother, John Isley. We had a great recording session in January with Steve Count (bass), Eric Halvorsen (drums) and Ted Kooshian (keyboards). This is a killin' bunch of players and we hope to get some great music out to you soon. Please keep watching my Facebook page, website and X (formerly Twitter) account for more info about this and everything else
